A Day in Poland

Morning & Illusion Museum

Today was another exciting day in Poland. In the morning, I attended a church service together with my host family. Afterwards, we went to a fascinating illusion museum with some other friends. There we had the opportunity to explore different optical illusions and take lots of creative and funny pictures.

Café Break

After visiting the museum, we went to a cosy café, where we treated ourselves to some delicious cake, cinnamon rolls and iced coffee. It was a great opportunity to relax and spend some time together before the group eventually split up.

Afternoon Hangout & Evening Return

My host sister and I then went to meet some other friends. We spent the afternoon together, enjoying some pizza, playing games and taking plenty of photos. It was a really fun and relaxed way to spend the rest of the day, and I enjoyed getting to know everyone even better.

At around 8 p.m., my host sister and I took the train back to her home. Overall, it was a really enjoyable day filled with new experiences, good food and lots of great moments with friends.
